I played Pac-Man for the first time when I was 7 years old in 1980. I remember that day, and the path of my life was defined in that single moment. Today, I am a digital strategist specializing in digital marketing consulting, user experience, and information architecture. What happened in between that time?

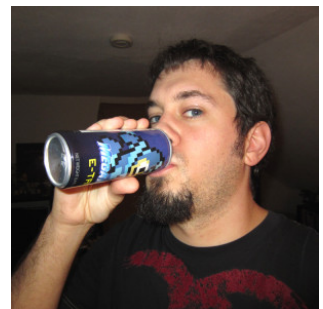

- Rise and fall of Atari
- NES, the new player
- Home computers; Tandy, Commodore, Amiga

- RPG's and RTS's
- Dawn of the network
- And a lot more

I lived through the technology and gaming revolution. I touched all parts and became an expert in many. This is not a blog. It a site where I catalogue my experiences through this evolution.

We are in the very infancy of this site. Please bare with my as we gain momentum and continue to populate.

...more to come - promise

Aside from running a game store online, I enjoy having outlets to post about what inspires and interests me in the tech world. I've been a gamer since I was little and it has always played a unique role in my life. I'm glad to see a lot of my generation reveres the classics the same way I do, even to this day!

Big thanks to Adam in giving me a chance to spout my virtual nonsense on his site:)
